SFRING SEASON AT ITS HEIGHT IN ENG-LAND.

REJOICING OF SPORTSMEN AT THE VICTORY OF THE PRINCE OF WALES IN A CLASSIC ENG-

spring racing season is at its height in Eng-Large crowds attend the races and general thusiasm prevails. All true sportsmen in England out the world will rejoice that the nce of Wales has finally won one of the so-called de English races. The Thousand Guineas, for e-year-old fillies, a sweepstakes of one hundred reigns each, was won by the Prince of Wales's wereigns each, was won by the Prince of Wales's own filly Thais, by St. Serf, out of Poetry, yester-y. The victory was extremely popular and used a general outbreak of enthusiasm among the ged a general state of racing who witnessed the race. The Wales is well known as a sportsman. He Prince of Wales is well known as a sportsman. He has raced horses for many years, although his colors have never been first past the winning post in any of the great three-year-old races, and he has been forced to be content with victories when his horses forced to be content with victories when his horses forced to be content with victories when his arder as were pitted against moderate fields, yet his arder as a sportsman was unabated. In 1825 F.or zel II was one of the best handicap and long-distance horses that raced in England. Michael F. Dwyer, on his return from England last rear, made the statement that in his opinion Florizel it was the best horse he had ever seen saddled, but Il was the best must be made for Mr. Dwyer's asserbecause his experiences on the turf in England ger extremely disastrous. The victories gained by sere extremely disastrous. The victories gained by plorizel greatly encouraged the Prince, and when bersimmon won some important victories in the twopersonal races, easily defeating his opponents, many ing enthusiasts predicted that Persimmon would racing enthusiasis predicted that Persimmon would win the Derby. Although it would be extremely popular to have the Derby fall to the lot of the Prince, St. Frusquin's recent victories make it appear that Persimmon's chances to win the blue ribpear that Penglish turf are extremely doubtful, bon of the English turf are extremely doubtful. The victory of Thais in the One Thousand Guineas caused some heavy losses to the leading members of the betting ring in England. The ring, however, feel elated over the fact that Baron Hirsch beueathed $5,000,000 to the Prince in his will. It is robable that a large amount of the $5,000,000 will ind its way into circulation through the channel of Turimen who have paid close attention to the of the English races up to date are imsed by the brilliant showing made by the sons daughters of St. Simon. The St. Simons have many races and several of them are placed alnost every day. It is likely that St. S.mon will gain head the list of winning sires in England. The get of St. Simon are not large horses by any means. being about the average in size, of uniform makeup. In many instances they possess flighty dispo-sitions. One thing they have, however, is the essensitions. One thing they have, make up a racehorse, and that quality that goes to make up a racehorse, and that essential is speed and plenty of it. The Ameri-can borses in England, as a rule, figure prominently in the "also rans." One thing, however, that pleases the Americans is the fact that the American owners in England are not afraid to race their horses, but love to see their colors no matter where they finish. Ramapo started yesterday and scored one of finish. Ramapo started yesterday and scored one of the few unplaced positions that stand against his brilliant record. The fact that Ramapo started indicates that he is sound, as Wishard does not believe in starting lame horses. Everybody who is at all familiar with the workings of the Wishard stable feels confident that Ramapo will create an aching void in the breasts of the members of the betting ring before the present season ends in England.

There is nothing new or startling in the affairs of the turf in this neighborhood. Routine work is the order of the day. Now and then some trainer paralls one of his nandicap horses to gallop along at a little better than a two-minute gait. An occasional dash of a half a mile in about fifty seconds is given to the older horses, while the two-year-olds that are prepared for the stake races are sent along a quarter of a mile at full speed just to get a line on them with an eye to future trials at the two-year-old distances.

The Bennings meeting will close to day. White in of a mile at full speed just to get a line on them with an eye to future trials at the two-year-old distances.

The Bennings meeting will close to-day. While a was not a "Howland success," it was beneficial in many ways, as it taught the managers many impriant lessons and how a race-meeting should be managed to attract the crowds in Washington.

Washington never was much of a racing point; it is almost impossible to secure the attendance of many members of the Foreign Legation and of many at the statesmen to attend races. Then there are so many different sets in the social make-up of the capital city that it would be extremely difficult to unite the different classes in an effort to make racing or anything else popular in Washington.

The racing season in this neighborhood will begin on Monday when the gates of the Aqueduct race track will be opened. Thomas Reilly, who is the president of the Queens County Jockey Club, is at the head of the management of the Aqueduct track. Mr. Reilly intends to have everything associated with the racing at the Aqueduct track conducted strictly according to the rules of the Jockey Club. A new grandstand capable of holding 3,500 spectators has been constructed, and several other important improvements have been made. It is likely that tests of the many different starting machines in the market will be made in the course of the meeting. Visitors to the track will be pleased to learn that covered boardwalks have been constructed from the train platforms to the grandstand. Stabling has been engaged for nearly 400 horses, and every indication points to excellent sport during the Aqueduct spring meeting.

CLOSE OF THE FASIG TROTTING SALE. Although the prices secured yesterday at W. B. rasig & Co.'s sale of trotting stock in Madison quare Garden were rather low, it was the opinion f nearly all horsemen present that most of the derings brought all they were worth. So many utclassed campaigners and "second-hand" trotters ave been put upon the New-York market during last few months that the demand is about exted for animals of this class, and there were

NEW-YORK ATHLETIC CLUB'S NEW SITE WORK ON THE BUILDING TO BE PUSHED RAP-IDLY-A NEW RULE AT THE TRAVERS ISLAND PROPERTY.

All the difficulties which were supposed to con-front the New-York Athletic Club over their new building site in Flfty-ninth-st. have been overcome and work on the st ucture will be pushed rapidly from now on. The club is in a prosperous condition, and more spacious quarters are badly needed. James Whitely, the president of the club, when seen yesterday, said that the talk about trouble over the excavations had been exaggerated, and that the building would be ready for occupancy by May 1 of next year. "There is no truth in the rumor," said Mr. Whitely, "that we surrounded Travers Island with pickets last Sunday to keep out people who were not members of the club. We have, however, stopped a practice which was being worked too freely to suit the members. "For a time it looked as if anybody who wished could go up to Travers Island, go to the clubhouse and order his dinner, and pay for it and depart at his pleasure, and we have had to put a stop to it. We have made a rule that hereafter only members can have the use of the property at Travers Island on Sundays. This means, of course, that the visiting list to the island has been suspended for the time being. Our club will live up to the Raines law so long as it is in force." from now on. The club is in a prosperous con

Middletown, Conn., May 1 (Special).-Wesleyan had it all her own way with Dartmouth this afternoon on the Wesleyan Field, and, but for Tyrrel's letting up a little in the eighth inning would have shut Dartmouth out. The home team batted strongly and at the right time. Tyrrel struck out ten men. Yaw made seven of Wesleyan's runs, four for himself and three as Townsend's substi-tute. The score:

New-Haven, Conn., May 1.—The annual baseball New-Haven, Conn., May 1.—The annual baseball game between the freshmen and the sophomores at Yale to-day resulted in a victory for the freshmen by the score of 4 to 3. About three thousand persons witnessed the game. The sophomores paraded the streets of the city before the contest with two bands, a drum corps, a cavalry squad and an infantry detachment. They also had four small yacht guns. During the game a sophomore by accident shot E. M. Atkins, centre fielder of the freshmen. The sophomores were stationed behind first base, where they fired off their musketry and cannon with blank cartridges to rattle the freshmen. The wadding from a discharge wounded Atkins in the calf of the right leg. He is not seriously injured. The freshmen made a raid on the sophomore drum corps, stole their fifes and hats and took the Yale fence in triumph.

NEW-YORK UNIVERSITY DEFEATED.

The Yale Consolidated team easily defeated New York University in baseball yesterday afternoon or Ohio Field. The University tried three pitchers. Allen and Valentine proved so wild that Mahoney was put in the box. He pitched well, but received wretched support. Peck pitched a superb game for Yale. The Yale players fielded well and bunched their hits. The score:

MANUFACTURERS PLEASED AT M'KIN-LEY'S BRILLIANT PROSPECTS. WELL-PAVED STREETS AND NEW OUTLETS FROM

THE CITY NEEDED TO RELIEVE CROWD-ING-CONDITION OF THE HUDSON COUNTY BOULEVARD.

The manufacturers of bicycles and their representatives in this market seem to be greatly pleased at the prospect of Major McKinley's nomination for President. One of them said yesterday that it was not so much the personality of Mr. McKinley which interested the cycling industry as the fact that he interested the cycling industry as the fact that he represented a sound protective policy. The bicycle industry embraces many kindred lines of manufacture which he thought would undoubtedly receive new life and vigor under assured protection against foreign cheap competition. It is well understood that the American wheel is superior in construction and in all respects a more satisfactory article than that which is made abroad, but manufacturers believe that the bicycle will be still further improved if the policy of protection for American industry is carried out, as they hope it will be, if McKinley secures the election.

Something must be done for the wheelmen in this city or the number of accidents, which are becoming so alarmingly frequent, will increase still further, The few well-paved streets in this city are now merely a rush of wheels every pleasant afternoon and at night, and this is particularly the case on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. The Boulevard for the last few nights has offered a spectacle Saturdays, so the last few nights has offered a spectacle which has caused the staid citizen who has not fallen a victim to the bicycle to stand still and wonder. Crowds of cyclists sweep up the drive, and it has been a difficult matter for the pedestrian to cross the street in safety, either to himself or to the cyclist. The work of asphalting the new streets should be hurried toward completion as fast as possible, and as soon as this is done some scheme should be considered for a good outlet to the suburban roads for the wheelmen. If they can get off the Boulevard and Riverside Drive, those thorough fares will not be so crowded. St. Clar McKelway, who witnessed the passing show, the other day said: "Here I am, standing alone and seeing the whole world go by on wheels."

The Hudson County Boulevard in New-Jersey is becoming so popular, not only with the cyclists of that State, but with riders from this side of the river as well, that complaints are coming in re-garding the manner in which the boulevard is kept. A party of Brooklyn cyclists went over the route the other day for the first time, having heard of its smoothness and beauty. When one of the wheel-men was asked what he thought of the new drive he said: "To tell the truth I was disappointed he said: "To tell the truth I was disappointed. The general scenery was not as inviting as I had been led to expect; but of this I have no complaint to make. There were swarms of small boys along the route, who seem to take a delight in harassing the cyclists I had several sticks thrown at me, and was chased by several dogs. What annoyed me particularly was the fact that the sprinkling-cart man on the Jersey Boulevard was a worse nuisance than the wheelmen have had to put up with in New-York City. The drive was flooded with water for a large part of the fourteen miles, and consequently we pedalied in sections of the road through a sea of mud."

The Quill Club Wheelmen will have a run to Bath Beach, Bensonhurst, and Coney Island, to-morrow. A stop will be made at Avoca Villa for dinner.

The Photo-Bleycle Outing of the Brooklyn Acad emy of Photography will take place to-morrow. The party will leave No. 177 Montague-st. at 8:30 a. m.: Cyclista via Bridge to Jay Street Ferry, to Weehawken, to Ridgefield; pedestrians take 9:30 boat at Chambers-st. via Northern Railroad of New-Jersey, to Ridgefield.

At his home he fell unconscious and died this morning without speaking. Dr. Sumner says his death was caused from a concussion of the

The favorite, Pay or P.ay, hal little difficulty in scoring a victory in the six-furlong dash, winning by four lengths from the second and third horses, who were only about a head apart at the finish. The stake race of the day was the Eastern Branch dash, for which only three colts, als of whom have been winners during the meeting, essayed for more honors. The Walden filly started ahead, and the Morris couple, with Prompt in the lead, were close after, but the black filly was two lengths to the good at the nish, making his third victory of the meeting.
